CURRENT PROJECT

Extending Liu Xiaogan's Methodology of Chinese Philosophy

Project in development

- Four connected PHIL 2030 forum essays; classmates raised questions and both teaching assistants responded in detail. Professor Cheng Chung-yi invited me to develop the essays into a single paper.
- The essays explore possible extensions of Liu's framework through further cases, including Wang Bi's commentary on the Laozi.

EDITORIAL EXPERIENCE

Co-founder and Chief Editor, CU Philosophy Review

June 2026 – present

- Co-founded with Lee Kwok Shun after weeks of discussion to develop a shared history of the CUHK Philosophy Department that future students can extend.
- Four-person editorial team preparing the first issue, on women in philosophy and their academic paths, for October 2026; editorial decisions and review are shared across the team.
- Preparing a first-year editor to continue the journal after its founders graduate.

LEADERSHIP AND SERVICE

Vice President, 26th Philosophy Orientation Camp

August 2026

- Worked with the Camp President, department office, former camp leaders and group leaders to deliver the three-day programme; designed three philosophy-based games, published at chuktaiwai.com.
- Produced the team's twenty-four-page camp publication from members' contributions; responsibilities also included meals, finance, administrative liaison and emotional support.

Service-Learning Participant, Chi Lin Nunnery
